

Were these events really random?

Summer 1939: Germany annexed the remainder of Czechoslovakia in Spring 1939, and in a close game a Polish crisis loomed. The random events were almost perfect for everyone:

- The U.S. calls for an armaments moratorium.
- The German General Staff is all for war.
- Italian support drops at a critical time.
- Britain makes a breakthrough understanding the Enigma machine.
- France guarantees Poland's territorial integrity.
- Russia purges a unit, even though it was at full cohesion.

Economic Trend →0
	Roosevelt applies pressure for armament moratorium. EAI: -1
	German General Staff study concludes "time for war couldn't be better". German support level: +3
	Count Ciano's diaries stolen and published Italian support level: -1
	Intact Enigma machine obtained. British codebreaking +1 level.
	France guarantees Polish territorial integrity. Poland: 2
	Stalin increases monthly quota for finding subversive elements. Purge one additional military unit 1