

You can't blame the French for being upset.

Sometimes random events don't seem random at all. In Spring 1937, the French were upset at the attitude of the British public in a by-election:

Pacifist candidate wins key by-election.
British support level: -1

British appeasement policies demoralizing.
French support level: -1